

ABSTRACT

[0010] A heat-resistant aluminum-silicon piston alloy having quantities of aluminum and silicon and at least one additional alloying element and a miniscule quantity of contaminants, wherein the quantity of the at least one additional alloying element is selected such that a buildup of a microstructure with a plurality of intermetallic phases results.